

A Better You Coaching Reveals New Web Site

For Immediate Release

February 2, 2010 (Newark, DE) - Candy Myura, Executive and Business Coach at A Better You Coaching of Newark, DE is proud and excited to reveal her new website, www.ABetterYouCoaching.com.

Today's world is more complicated than ever, and there are a lot of pressures placed on executives, businesses, and employees. Candy Myura has leveraged nearly two decades of experience as an executive to launch her coaching business, A Better You Coaching. She provides Executive Coaching, Business Coaching, and enables her clients to achieve balance in their personal lives.

40% of CEOs in America's fastest growing companies hire Coaches. These Executive Coaches and Business Coaches help their clients grow confidence, improve their businesses, and increase productivity. Executive Coaches also help you evaluate your own strengths and weaknesses and lay out a path to a better you.

The website explains the tactical concepts each client can choose from in developing their program. The content is broken into Leadership, Business, and Personal Coaching sections (Executive Coaching contains elements of each of these three categories), and having these resources helps to create a personal experience for each new client. Myura states, "Taking driven, talented individuals to the next level in their career and lives is my primary objective." Myura adds that, "Coaching is a very personal experience for most and differs vastly for each client. My hope in launching the new website is to introduce potential clients to the process, and begin to show them the benefits coaching can bring to their professional and personal lives. However, real growth happens as the relationship builds between coach and client."

ABetterYouCoaching.com has an easy to navigate layout, a complete coaching model detailing the process of hiring and working with an Executive or Business Coach, and a blog where Candy shares articles and advice to create a better you. The web site also features a number of testimonials from clients who have had their lives and businesses changed by Candy and the services that she offers.
